In Pitman, you write the consonant sounds first to form a shorthand "outline" and then, if necessary, mark in the vowels. In many instances, no vowel marks are necessary. Vowels should, however, be marked in full the first time a proper name is mentioned (or if the name has an unfamiliar spelling, it should be spelled out in regular letters).

Pitman was asked to create a shorthand system of his own in 1838. He had used Samuel Taylor's system for seven years, but his symbols bear greater similarity to the older Byrom system. The first phonetician to invent a system of shorthand, Pitman used similar-looking symbols for phonetically related sounds.

Pitman's shorthand is the oldest method. Gregg shorthand was invented by a guy who taught shorthand and knew Pitman and the French Duployan methods, but he disliked their angular nature and the fact that Pitman's shorthand requires lined notepaper and a special italic-type nib or pencil in order to distinguish thick and thin strokes.
