Never = not ever Won't = will not So both mean "will not ever" it's just the negative is in different places. They are pretty much interchangeable but "will never" sounds slightly more forceful and I think is more commonly used

What is the difference between "will never" and "won't ...

'Will never' would be a strong, reality-based statement for NOW. 'Would never' is more prone to fantasy, non-reality based stuff that can literally be in either the past or in the future. Both serve a function to add clarity to another action (and that verb is usually in the infinitive form) "I will never speak to you again!"

I will never not think about you
From the moment I left I knew you were the one
And no matter what ever I do, ooh, mmm I will never not think about you
What we had only comes
Once in a lifetime
For the rest of mine, I'll always compare
To the room
In my heart with the memories we made Nights on fifth, in between
B and A
There's no way I could ...
