To create an invisible crochet part, you have to pull the crochet hair under the cornrow, then stop right there! Before you go further, instead of pulling both ends of the hair through the loop as you normally would, only pull one end. Then pull that end of the hair to create a knot that sits on top of the cornrow (check the video for reference).

Cut as close as possible from the knot the left over tails. For this example we used two balls of fine wool in light yellow, and aquamarine, but all our yarns are perfect for this kind of join. He have used two different colors so you can better appreciate the contrast between both balls, but when you use this kind of knot with the same yarn color, and then knit a row with it, it will be practically invisible.
