Weber's lecture on science as vocation explicitly refers to this growing internal differentiation of science. 7 It is from that same perspective that R. Stichweh (1991, 1992, 2003) or more recently J. Jacobs (2014) defined discipline as a "key unit of internal differentiation in science", i.e. a delimited set of individuals working simultaneously as researchers but also as teachers within a specific cognitive perimeter.

"Politics as a Vocation" is an essay by German economist and sociologist Max Weber. It originated in the second lecture of a series he gave in Munich to the "Free Students Union" of Bavaria on 28 January 1919. This happened during the German Revolution when Munich itself was briefly the capital of the Bavarian Socialist Republic. Weber gave the speech based on handwritten notes which were transcribed by a stenographer. The essay was published in an extended version in July 1919, and translated i
